Anderson's Wear-Easy

is a shoe made especially for farm use and that will wear "as easy as an old shoe" right from the start. A shoe in which there is not a peg or nail or thread to touch the bottom of the foot. A shoe that is almost as soft and flexible as a lady's hand turned. A shoe with a pure white oak innersole that is cooling to the bottom of the foot; all other every day shoes are made with cheap acid tanned red leather innersoles that burn, scald and blister the feet so badly in hot weather. A shoe that will give more comfort for general farm use than any shoe that has ever been gotten up.

Morganfield, Ky., July 4.—William Mattingly, a well known citiscent of this place, who was connected with some of the best families of the state, committed suicide in the county jail in a peculiar manner. He had been drinking for some time, and his friends bad exhausted every means to get him to reform. As a last resort, he was arrested while intoxicated and placed in a cell in the jail, in the hope that themortification of the arrest might arouse him to a sense of his duty to himself and his friends. Everything of was taken out of his pockets with which he could harm himself except a small fishing line in his vest pocket.

A LONG JAUNT.

Couple Ride Thirty Miles to Have the Knot Tied,

Mr. Eugene Crick, a young farmer living at Red Hill, near the Hopkins county line, and Miss Sarah E. Jones, of near White Plains, arrived in the city at an early hour yesterday morning, having made the trip of about thirty miles on horseback, and as soon as a license could be procured, were quietly married by County Judge Cansler. The wedding took place in the County Clerk's office. As soon as the ceremony was pronounced the young people took a stroll over the city, made a few purchases, and about noon left for their future home in north-east Christian.

The only other office that Senator Goodel tried for and did not get was that of Judge of the Kentucky court of appeals. Failing to get the non-mination himself, he succeeded in naming the lucky man. He nominated Judge T. H. Paynter, and the latter reciprocated by working teeth and toe nail at the convention lawyer, a fine campaigner, and will, so those who know him say, add teeth and toe nail at the convention so those who know him say, add just closed to secure the nomination 10,000 votes to the majority in for Mr. Goebel.

Senator Goebel has been a mem-ber of the State Senate for twelve years, during ten of which time he thas been recognized as a Demo-vratic leader. He was chairman of all the Democratic caucuses and was twice chairman pro tem. of the extra senatorial races in '96 and '197 he was the leader of the race.

The Democratic nominee is unmarried. His parents are dead, and his only relatives are Arthur and Justus Goebel, who are brothers. Justus is a wealthy Cincinati merchant and Arthur is connected with his business. Arthur was in attendance during the con-vention and worked for his brother.

Lieutenant Governor,

The nomination of the Hon. J. C. W. Beckham for the office of Lieutenant Governor is, like the nomintenant Governor is, like the nomin-ation of Senator Goobel for the Gov-sernorship, a victory for the young Democrats of Kentucky. Though not yet thirty years of age, having been born on August 5, 1869, Mr. Beckham is widely known all over the State through service in its legislative halls at Frankfort, where he has sat for three terms, the last time as Speaker of the lower branch

The nominee comes of one of the oldest families in Kentucky. His father was the Hon. Wm. N. Beck-ham, of Nelson county, and his mother is the daughter of ex-Gov. Robt, C. Wickliffe, of Louisana, On the first day he was eligible to hold the office, Mr. Beckham was nomin-ated by the Democracy of Nelson county to represent it in the House of Representatives, where he had tific course, he completed his educa years before served as page.

Auditor.

The nominee for the office of State Auditor, the Hon. Gus G. Coulter, of the county of Graves, is one of the widest-known and most influential politicians in the First Congressional district. He was born in the county of Marshall thirty-eight years ago, his father being C. C. Coulter, at one time a leading lawver in that section of the State

Gus Coulter located in Graves county in early manhood, and has county in early mannood, and has occupied several positions of honor and trust, presented by his home people. He served from 1886 to 1892 as Circuit Clerk of the county, and declined a re-election to that office. He is now Master Commis sioner of the Graves Circuit Court, and practices his profession, the law, at Mayfield. His own merits and an earnest campaign before the people of Western Kentucky se-cured for him the nomination, and his friends predict that he will bring out a Democratic majority in that section of the State in Novem-ber next that will be an increase of that cast in the national election in tion.

The nominee of the convention for Superintendent of Public Instruc-tion, Harry V. McChesney, of the county of Livingston, is a sterling young Democrat with well defined ideas as to the best means of thro. ling in Kentucky the Book Trust.

Mr. McChesney was born in the county of Caldwell in 1868, and is consequently just old enough to hold the office under the law. As he expresses it himself, Mr. McChesney comes of humble parentage, "appoor as Job's turkey." He received a common school education and be gan as a country school teacher a the age of seventeen, teaching school in winter and himself going to school during the summer months. He was elected Superintendent of Common Schools in Livingstor re-elected to the office, and is now serving in that capacity. As a di version from his school duties the Schools in dominee has to the little dited the Livingston Baur Smithland, the county seat, newspaper. Mr. M minee has for the past three year on Bann Smithland, the county seat, a Democratic newspaper. Mr. McChesney gives much of the credit for winning the nomination to his wite, who was Miss Berna Presnell, of Caldwell county. Mary Baker Eddy.

The upward of 1,000,000 believer and followers that Chiristian Scien tists claim as having registered to-day, all started from the teachings and writings of one individual. That individual is Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, of Concord, N. H. In [1866, while living in Lynn, Mass., Mrs. Eddy (then Mrs. Glover) claims to have met with a se vere accident. Her case was pro vere accident. Her case was pro-nounced hopeleas, she says, by the physicians. She claims that she became aware of a "divine illumi-nation and ministration." Her at-tendants believed her to be deliri-ous and at the point of death, when, to their "bewilderment and fright," she claims she rose from her bed she claims she rose from her and walked. "They thought I had died and it was my apparition," she said.

"I felt that the Divine Spirit had wrought a miracle," she said, in re ference to this experience. "How, I could not tell; but later I found it to be in perfect scientific accord with the divine law.

Such is the remarkable claim of Mrs. Eddy, who straightway wrote a book which sells for $5 a copy, and which has been bought by several hundred thousand of her fol-lowers, who study it with a rever-ence second only to the Bible. Today Mrs. Eddy is not only the head of the church, having more than a million avowed followers in the United States, but her word is the sole law of the church. Brigham United States, but her word is the sole law of the church. Brigham Young was not more absolute among the Mormons. And the Mormon faith did not spread as repidly as the Christian Science faith has. Mrs. Eddy has said: "My decision is final on all questions pertaining to the Science everywhere."

Gaines, Warren Martin, John L. Smith, Ed Walker, J. D. Watson, Jim Wilhelm and others. Incidents of the war of 1812 and personal reminiscences of the life and character of Daniel Boone were topics that never failed to interest every crowd they got into.

Never Speak as They Pass By, From All Appearances-A Trip.

Chattanooga, July 3.—Hon. Wil-liam Jenninga Bry an passed through here to-day en route to Barnesville, Ga., where he makes an address to-morrow. From Nashville Rev. Sam Jones, the Georgia evangelist, occupied the Pullman car with Col. Bryan. Trainmen report that they did not speak, and sat in moody silence near each other all the way to Chattanooga. A few months age Rev. Jones, who is a sound money Democrat, in a newspaper commu-ication ridiculed free silver adv-cates, and referred facetiously the small amount of taxes paid by Col. Bryan. The latter made a spirited reply. This explains the personal coolness between them.

Marriage in England.

Marriage is growing in popularity in England. In 1897 there were 16 persons married to every 1,000 of the population. In the previous 20 years the average was a fraction over 15.

Gas of this kind should be generated in a strong eartheavare jug that will stand a great deal of pressure. Quarter fill the jug with water, pour in molasses enough to increase the liquid one-half and add a small quantity of yeast. Such a mixture will begin impredictably to ferment. A pour gin immediately to ferment. A pow-erful gas will be developed. Mean-time the mouth of the jug should be connected to the steam tube of the engine by a stout rubber hose. There engine by a stout rubber hose. There should be a stopeocek either on the engine or at the mouth of the jug, so that the flow of gas can be controlled. Simple as the arrangement may appear, it will result in the engine running quite rapidly as long as the gas holds out. Of course when it is all gone you may turn off the stopeock and allow more gas to be reproduced in the jug. In the absence of an engine (which, by the way, can be purchased for less than a dollar) you might operate a miniature fountain by using a fine quill in the cork. The gas tube in this case should be attached firmly to the lower nozzle of the bottle. the bottle.

It is really surprising how much pressure may be developed in this way. Mellikoff succeeded in inducing the bacteria to generate gas at a pressure of over 60 pounds to the square inch. A sufficient quantity of gas at such an enormous pressure, under certain circumstances, would pull a train of cars. Of course no fermenta-tion is rapid enough to sustain great pressure very long, although the Russian scientist was able to keep his motor going over 20 hours at a time.

We all recollect the famous verse in our translation: "Then Satan answered the Lord, and said, Doth Job fear God for nought?" Franklin makes for Lord, and said, Doth Job tear God for nought?" Franklin makes this: "Does your majesty imagine that Job's good conduct is the effect of mere personal attachment and affec-tion?" I well remember how, when first I read that I drew a deep breath of relief, and said tomyself, "After all, there is a stretch of humanity beyond there is a stretch of humanity beyond Franklin's victorious good sense.' Morbid jeafquey was found to be at the toot of to implied rine and insaning that it was thought best to make a thorough analysis of it.

Dr. Keyes proceeded to collect and classify the different species of jeal-ousy. First he came upon the greenest variety of all, which he called "jealousy of the senses." This is the most brief of all, and often leads to nurder and stiedde.

variety Dr. Keyes labeled "jealousy of the heart." This kind is sentimental rather than of the raging, physical sort. This is much less harmful than calousy of the sense. But, as its name implies, it causes no end of fear burnings."

The most deadly kind of jealousy of all Dr. Keyes found to be insane fealousy. This is often a spontaneous outburst, and is part at times of a general persecutional state. Particularly is this so of alcoholic insanity. This is true of 80 per cent. of alcohol paycho-degenerates, and jealousy appears often at the onset of intoxication and leads the patient to bloody, sometimes mortal, acts against the innocent victims of their suspicion. In insane jealousy the imagination has for its cause some infieldity of the loved one—a creation of the mind. Under the mastery of this strong emotion what chimes in with it is retained and other things kept out of sight. THE UMBRELLA'S STORY.

Has Been Popular in England Little Over a Century.

The umbrella is of very ancient origin. It is found in designs on Greek and Etruscan vases, and is traced back to ancient Egypt, the mother of arts. Its first use was undoubtedly to protect from the burning rays of the tropical sun; its Latin derivation the tropical sun; its Latin derivation is from umbra, a shade. The English got the umbrella from France, and the first man who carried this rain protection in England was Joseph Hanway, who began the practice when a young man and continued it until his death in 1784. Hanway was famous in his day as a philanthropist, but he is remembered now quite as much for his persistence in carrying an umbrella and beating down the prejudice against the use of it, as for any of his nursh knowledges of the control of the property of th prejudice against the use of it, as for any, of his purely beneficent deeds When Hanway died all the people in England carried umbrellas, and the have continued to do so ever since. Indeed, nowadays England would not seem England without the ever-pres-ent umbrella.

Though the umbresa came from Though the umbreas came from the cast, reaching first Italy, then Spain and France and afterward Eng-land and Germany, the pendulum now is swinging back again, and the last commercial statistics show that isst commercial statistics show that the city of Paris is exporting 600,000 umbrellas annually to Turkey, while in England in one year 819,000 um-brellas were manufactured for ship-ment to Burmah. — John Gilmer Speed, in Woman's Home Compan-ion.

This is not as might be imagined, a fashionable fad, but the grave result produced by lad, out the grave result of the rude fore, in order to secure a more market, able-article, is reasted in enormous furnaces, and it is some strange emanation from the melted copper that effects this chemical change in the hair of the miners. Investigations have never that the functions are never that the functions in the same from the s

This species of smo is apparently increasing in our republic; at least, that seems to be the inference fairly to be drawn from the numferons advertisements of professors of heraldry, who offer to provide coats of arms and registers of genealogies for the "new men" who, having recently become somebodies, would ignore the shirt sleeves and leather aprons which formerly distinguished them.

It was never painted.
Sir Francis Crossley, the rich carpet manufacturer of Halifax, England, was proud of the fact that his father had been a hand-worker at the loom, and his mother a domestic servant with yearly wages of ten pounds (850). He built a plantial residence, and offered his widowed mother the best apartment therein. She or the best apartment therein. She declined to move out of the old family house attached to the mill, preferring to dwell in the home of her husband and her earlier domestic life.

Frank Crossley became mayor of Halifax and a member of parliament and was honored with a baronetcy Neither he nor his brother forgot the nber of parliament, oor, or the people from whose ranks they had risen. They built and endowed a large orphanage school, erected a row of comfortable alms-houses, and gave the town an exten-sive "People's park."

To the workmen and to the towns men he was "Frank," rather than "Sir Francis." Dr. Newman Hall men-tions in his "Autobiography" that, being present at a great meeting at which Sir Francis was speaking, be heard a workman shout: "Spak oot, Frank, lad!"

As Dr. Hall was inspecting large statue of Sir Francis, erected by the citizens of Halifax, he said to a bby, who also was looking at it:
"Who's that?" "It's Frank Crossley!" answered the boy. "He'll be cold out there all night!" playfully remarked the clergyman; whereupo the literal-minded boy replied: "Il ain't wick! it's nobbot shaape on 'im! (He is not alive! it's only his shape.)

The man must not only have been naturally noble, but profoundly religious and very human, of whom his workmen and the town boyseould speak as "Frank Crossley," although he was very rich and a baronet.—

STRONG MARKET.

The Weed From 25c to 50c Higher

The tobacco market this week was strong and decidedly more active than for some time past. All grades of both leaf and lugs sold at from 25c to 50c higher than last week. The outlook is more flattering and a better feeling in the trade is looked for throughout the balance of the season. As Tuesday was a legal holiday sales occurred only two days of the week, Wednesday and Thursday, but they amounted to about 600 hogsheads. Receipts were heavy and will continue good until all of the '98 crop is delivered. Good to medium leaf is quoted from $8.50 to 6.50, common to medium leaf from 6.50 to 5, good lugs from 5.25 to 3.75 and common to medium lugs from 3.50 to 2.50 ugs from 3.50 to 2.50
